

Notes on Contributors

J.L. Bolton is a Professorial Research Fellow in the School of History, Queen Mary, University of London. He is principal researcher for the Borromei Bank Research Project.

Matthew Bennett FSA FRHistS is a Senior Lecturer at the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst and has spent over three decades researching into the ethos and practice of medieval warfare.

Ann Bowtell has recently completed her PhD thesis on the London hospital of Elsyngspital at Royal Holloway, University of London.

Martha Carlin is Professor in History at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Her current research topics include food and diet, household technologies, shopping, menus, fraud, and correspondence.

David Grummitt is a Lecturer in British History at the University of Kent. He has published widely on late fifteenth-century England and is writing A Short History of the Wars of the Roses.

Marcus Herbert is a professional probate researcher interested in medieval history, art and architecture, but particularly the study of unidentified English funerary monuments of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries.

Michael Hicks is Professor of Medieval History at the University of Winchester. His latest books are The Wars of the Roses (Yale 2010) and the third edition of False, Fleeting, Perjur'd Clarence (Davenant 2010).

Maureen Jurkowski is an Honorary Research Fellow at University College London, and a former researcher on the English Monastic Archives Project.

Pamela King is Professor of Medieval Studies at the University of Bristol. She has published widely on the performance culture of the late Middle Ages, and has a special interest in cadaver tombs.

Hannes Kleineke is a Senior Research Fellow at the History of Parliament. He is the author of Parliamentarians at Law (Wiley-Blackwell 2008) and Edward IV (Routledge 2009).

Mavis E. Mate is an Emerita Professor at the University of Oregon. She has written extensively on the economy and society of late medieval England and published two books dealing with women.

Carol M. Meale is a Senior Research Fellow at the University of Bristol. She has published extensively on codicology and literature and history from the late fourteenth to the early sixteenth centuries.

Wendy Moorhen joined the Society in 1987 and is chairperson of the Thames Valley Branch and a former Research Officer of the Society. Currently researching the life of James Tyrell.

Ann Eljenholm Nichols, Professor Emerita, Winona State University, is currently working on an edition of the illustrated Middle English poem, 'O Vernicle', but her primary interest is fifteenth-century iconography.

Lucia Diaz Pascual is an American lawyer with an MA in medieval studies. She has published a biography of Louis of Luxembourg in the Oxford Dictionary of National Biography.

A.J. Pollard is emeritus professor of history at the University of Teesside. He has published widely on fifteenth-century English history. His current focus is on late medieval popular politics.

Nigel Ramsay is an historian of the late medieval English Church: google on 'English Monastic Archives' for his current project, a reconstructional catalogue of the archives of English monasteries.

James Ross is a senior medieval specialist at the National Archives. He is the author of John de Vere, Thirteenth Earl of Oxford, 1442–1513, Woodbridge 2011.

Livia Visser-Fuchs is writing a book on Jean de Wavrin's historical work.